WILEY

Tea, have you ever wondered why connecting with some people is easier for you than with others?

Maybe you've noticed that you relate better to colleagues who focus more on ensuring dependable and accurate results.

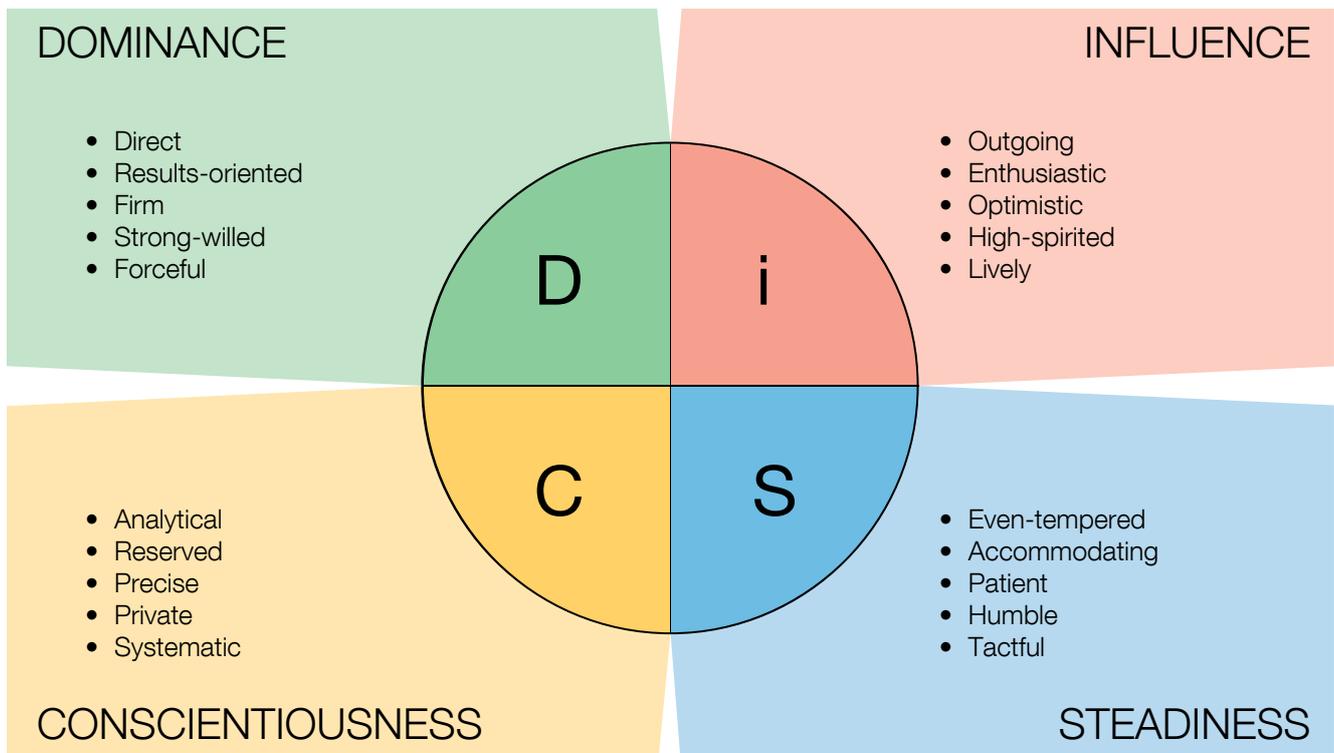

Or, maybe you're more comfortable working with those who take an energetic, bold approach than those who work at a steadier pace.

Or, perhaps you relate best to people who are accepting rather than skeptical.

Welcome to Everything DiSC Workplace®. The DiSC® model is a simple tool that's been helping people to connect better for over thirty years. This report uses your individual assessment data to provide a wealth of information about your workplace priorities and preferences. In addition, you'll learn how to connect better with colleagues whose priorities and preferences differ from yours.

Cornerstone Principles of Everything DiSC Workplace®

- ▶ All DiSC styles and priorities are equally valuable and everyone is a blend of all four styles.
- ▶ Your work style is also influenced by other factors such as life experiences, education, and maturity.
- ▶ Understanding yourself better is the first step to becoming more effective when working with others.
- ▶ Learning about other people's DiSC styles can help you understand their priorities and how they may differ from your own.
- ▶ You can improve the quality of your workplace by using DiSC to build more effective relationships.

How is this report personalized to you, Tea?

In order to get the most out of your Everything DiSC Workplace® Profile, you'll need to understand how to read your personal map.

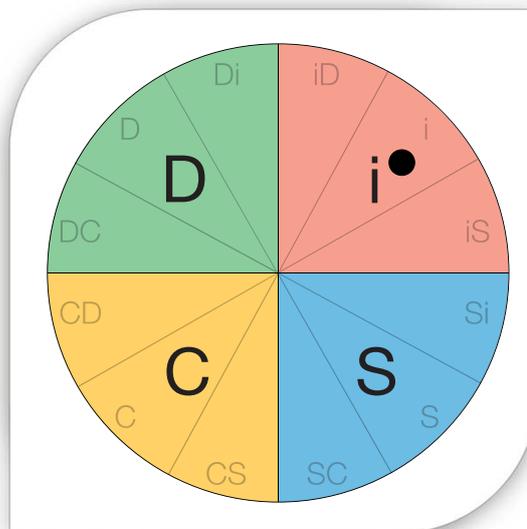

Your Dot

As you saw on the previous page, the Everything DiSC® model is made up of four basic styles: D, i, S, and C. Each style is divided into three regions. The picture to the right illustrates the 12 different regions where a person's dot might be located.

Your DiSC® Style: i

Your dot location shows your DiSC style. Because your dot is located in the middle of the i region, you have an i style.

Keep in mind that everyone is a blend of all four styles, but most people tend strongly toward one or two styles. Whether your dot is in the center of one style or in a region that borders two, no dot location is better than another. All DiSC® styles are equal and valuable in their own ways.

Close to the Edge or Close to the Center?

A dot's distance from the edge of the circle shows how naturally inclined a person is to encompass the characteristics of his or her DiSC style. A dot positioned toward the edge of the circle indicates a strong inclination toward the characteristics of the style. A dot located between the edge and the center of the circle indicates a moderate inclination. And a dot positioned close to the center of the circle indicates a slight inclination. A dot in the center of the circle is no better than one on the edge, and vice versa. Your dot location is near the edge of the circle, so you are strongly inclined and probably relate well to the characteristics associated with the i style.

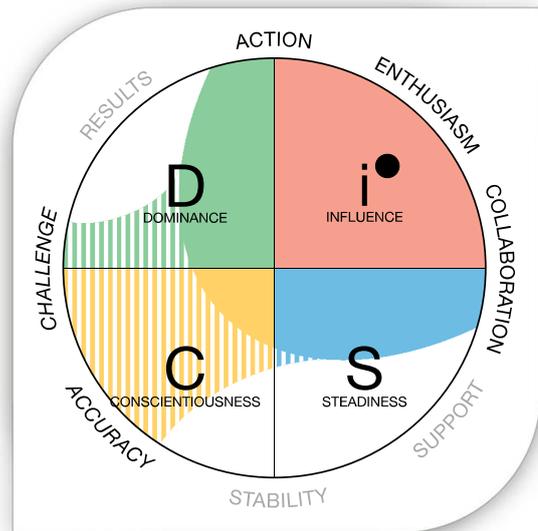

Now that you know more about the personalization of your Everything DiSC Workplace Map, you'll read more about what your dot location says about you. Then you'll learn about your personal map shading and priorities and discover how this affects your preferences. After that, you'll learn some basics about the other DiSC styles and how to use that information to connect better with everyone in your workplace.

Your Shading Expands the Story

Tea, while your dot location and your DiSC® style can say a great deal about you, your map shading is also important.

The eight words around the Everything DiSC map are what we call priorities, or the primary areas where people focus their energy. The closer your shading comes to a priority, the more likely you are to focus your energy on that area. Everyone has at least three priorities, and sometimes people have four or five. Having five priorities is no better than having three, and vice versa.

Typically, people with the i style have shading that touches Enthusiasm, Action, and Collaboration. Your shading stretches to include Accuracy and Challenge, which isn't characteristic of the i style.

What Priorities Shape Your Workplace Experience?

► Generating Enthusiasm

Tea, you like to maintain an optimistic, upbeat attitude. Most likely, you assume the best in people and find the positive aspects of difficult situations. Furthermore, your energy adds to your exuberance, and you're usually open and expressive with your opinions and emotions. Because you like to encourage team spirit, you focus on generating enthusiasm.

► Taking Action

People with your i style like excitement and fast movement. Most likely, you're energized by innovative, groundbreaking solutions, and you're eager to get new projects started quickly. In fact, your rapid pace might be too much for others, and rather than slowing down to meet their needs, you may encourage them to keep up with you. Your willingness to take quick action can help the group move forward.

► Valuing Collaboration

Like others with the i style, you're probably friendly and outgoing, and you prefer working with others. Most likely, you enjoy meeting new people and finding opportunities to interact. In fact, you probably have a difficult time understanding people who would rather work independently. You value collaboration because you think it not only leads to better outcomes, but it makes the job more fun.

► Ensuring Accuracy & Offering Challenge

In addition, you also have two extra priorities that are not typical for someone with the i style. Accuracy and precision seem to be essential to you, so you probably consider your options carefully to be sure that you get things done right. Since you look for competency, you're likely to point out flaws and challenge assumptions if you encounter methods that you think lack common sense.

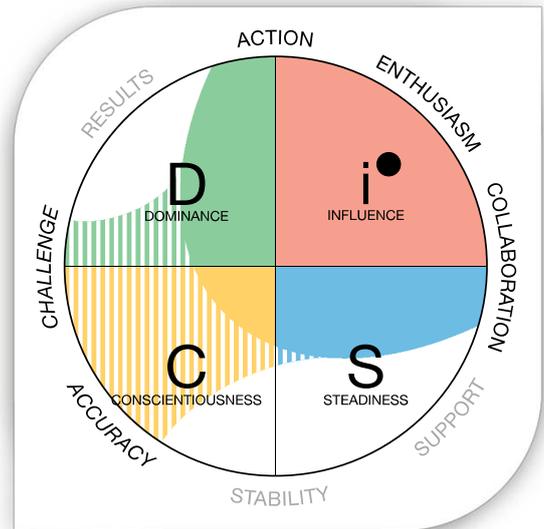

What Motivates You?

Different people find different aspects of their work motivating. Like other people with the i style, you may appreciate opportunities to work with passionate people toward a common goal, and you probably like working in high-energy environments where everyone can express themselves. Because you like to be on the go, you may seek opportunities to meet new people and work on a variety of tasks. At the same time, you appreciate exactness, so you probably welcome opportunities to focus on precision. You might also appreciate settings where you're encouraged to ask tough questions and challenge assumptions.

You probably enjoy many of the following aspects of your work:

MOTIVATORS

- Meeting new people
- Being the center of attention
- Inspiring others to do their best
- Initiating interesting projects
- Being around people who are lively and charismatic
- Emphasizing accuracy and precision
- Catching errors or flaws in design
- Asking meaningful questions
- Bringing inefficiencies to attention

What do your priorities say about what motivates you and what you find stressful?

What Is Stressful for You?

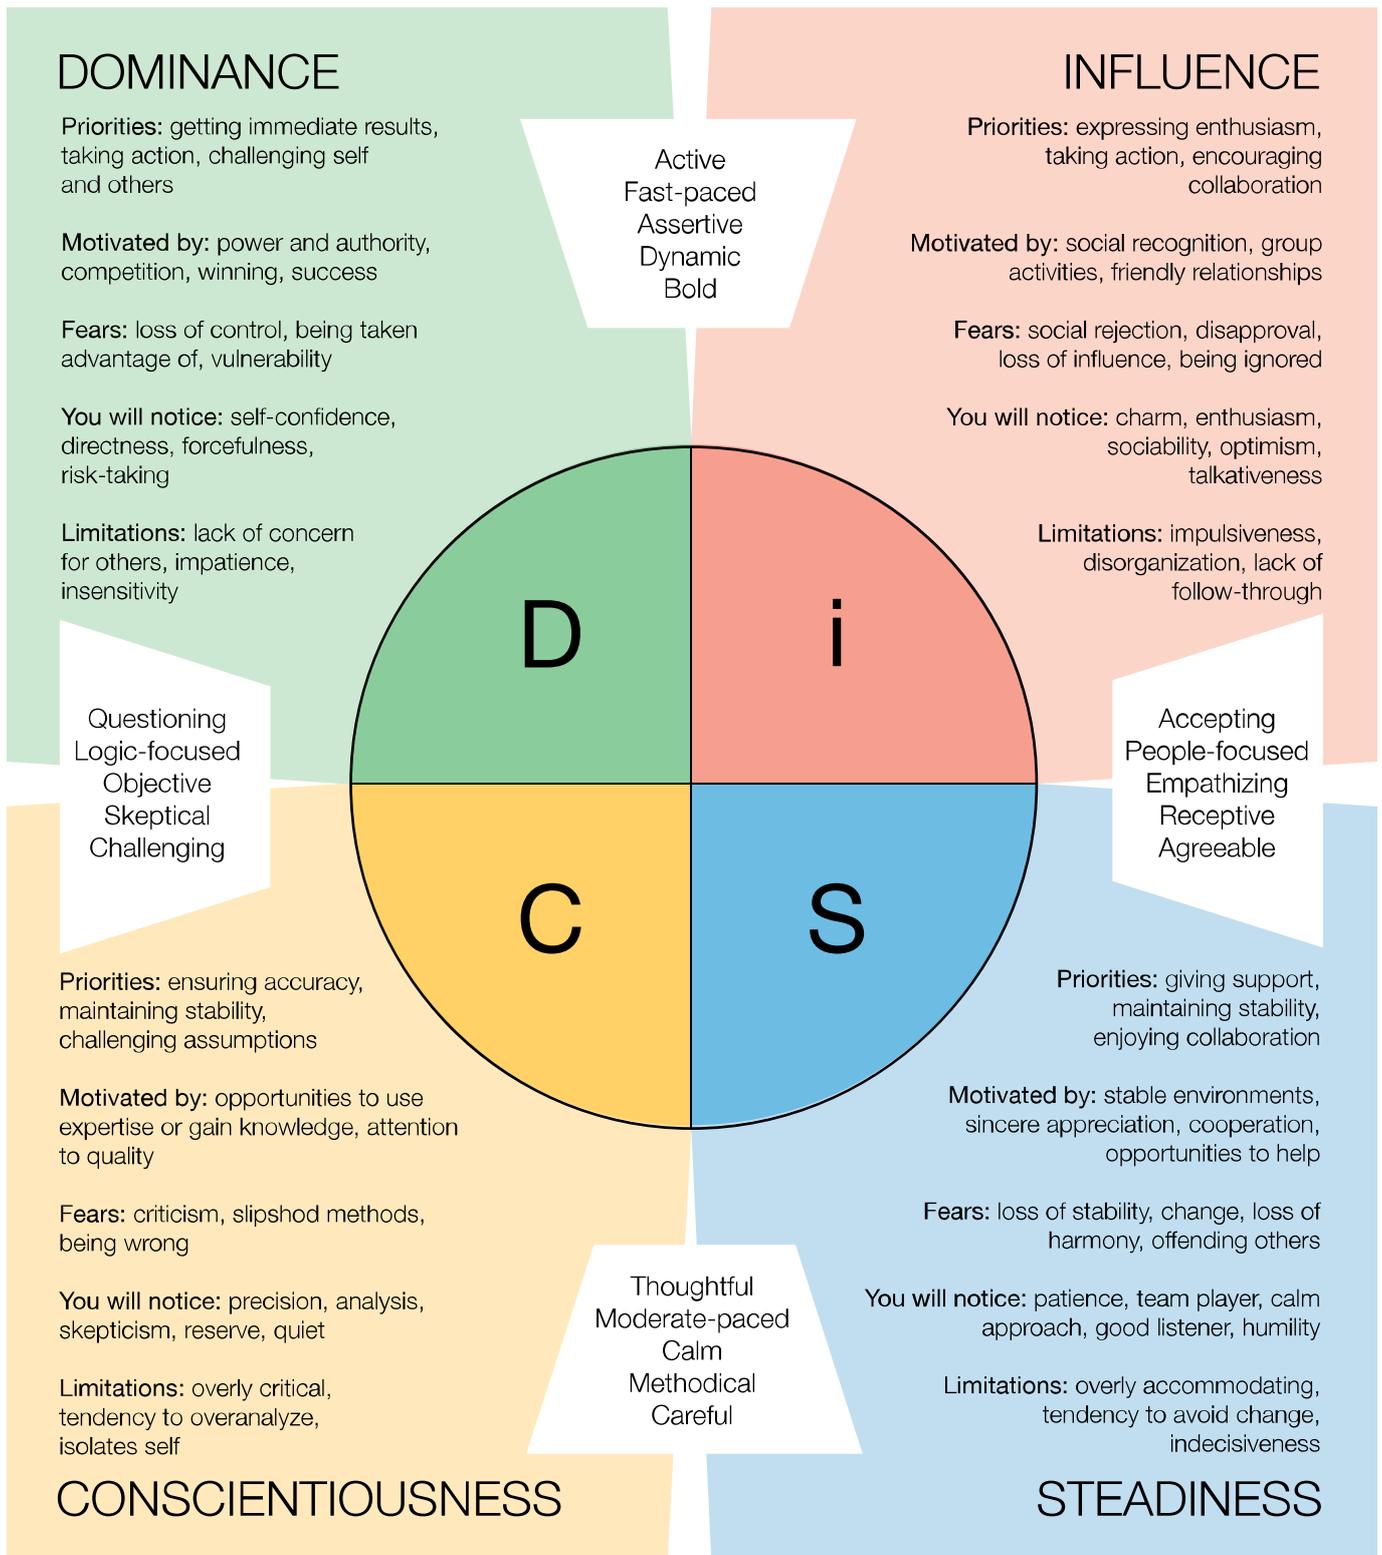

Then there are those aspects of your work that are stressful for you. Because you tend to be active and lively, you may find very routine work drains your energy. Consequently, you may be more interested in starting new projects than following through on old ones. You may also dislike environments that you feel are dull or don't allow you to express yourself. In addition, it may be stressful for you if you feel you don't have the expertise to get things right the first time. Likewise, situations in which you're expected to accept things at face value might be particularly stressful for you.

Many of the following aspects of your work may be stressful for you:

STRESSORS

- Giving people unpleasant feedback
- Being forceful or insistent with others
- Being isolated for long periods
- Working steadily toward long-term goals
- Being in a dull or unsocial environment
- Making decisions without time for analysis
- Being wrong or unprepared
- Dealing with people who don't meet your standards
- Having to keep your opinions to yourself

The graphic below provides a snapshot of the four basic DiSC® styles.

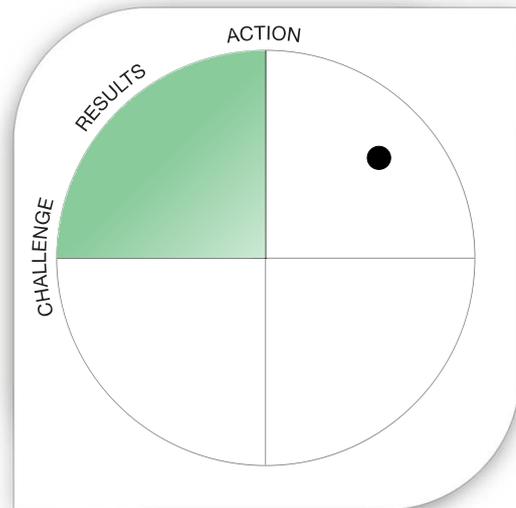

UNDERSTANDING HOW YOU REACT TO THE D STYLE

Imagine that you regularly interact with someone with a D style. She's well-respected by the organization as an ambitious person who delivers on her promises. While you may appreciate her determination, you probably have trouble relating to what you see as a narrow focus on results.

Like you, this colleague values action and drive, and you may appreciate that she sets lofty goals and goes after them. She seems confident and strong-willed, and she shares your readiness to tackle anything head-on. Because you also prefer a dynamic work environment, you're probably comfortable with her intensity and fast pace.

Furthermore, you may identify with her questioning nature since you share her tendency to challenge ideas, an unexpected characteristic for someone with the i style. As a result, you're likely to appreciate her healthy sense of skepticism. However, this also may cause the two of you to have conflict at times, and you may find it difficult to agree on solutions.

To you, people with the D style may seem:

- ✓ Driven
- ✓ Blunt
- ✓ Outspoken
- ✓ Forceful

What Is the Motivation for Their Behavior?

As you can see from the map, people with the D style prioritize Results, Action, and Challenge. Because they place such a high value on these three areas, it will probably affect your working relationship with them.

Results

People with the D style tend to be strong-willed individuals who prioritize Results. Because they are so driven, they constantly look for new challenges and opportunities. They strive for success and won't give up just because they run into a few obstacles. You may have trouble relating to their competitiveness, but they relish any chance to test themselves and excel.

Action

In addition, they prioritize Action, so they focus on achieving their goals quickly and forcefully. Cautious and predictable environments are particularly tedious for them, and they may get impatient if others spend a lot of time analyzing ideas rather than acting on them. Since you also prefer to move quickly toward your goals, you can probably relate to their desire for a rapid pace.

Challenge

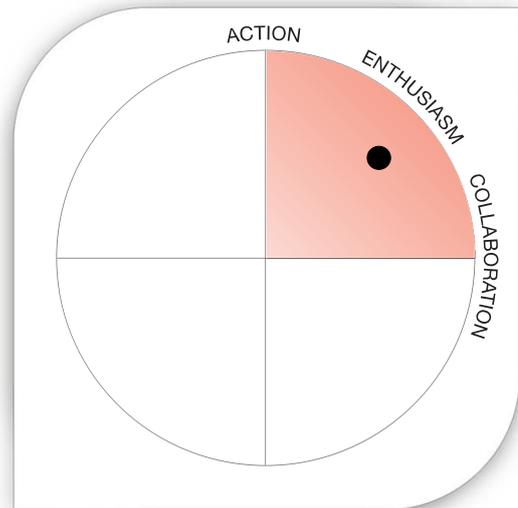

Furthermore, those with the D style also prioritize Challenge. Because they want to control outcomes, they're often questioning and independent-minded. They are unlikely to accept things they're unsure about, and they won't hesitate to challenge ideas that they don't agree with. Since you also tend to challenge the status quo, you probably relate to this tendency, but you also may find yourself in disagreement with them at times.

UNDERSTANDING HOW YOU REACT TO THE i STYLE

Now, imagine that you also work with someone with an i style. Like you, he is enthusiastic and upbeat, and you probably appreciate his openness to new ideas. He seems to know everyone on a first-name basis, and he can always tell you the latest news about what's going on in the organization.

Because you both tend to prioritize action and a fast pace, you probably admire his spontaneity and flexibility. Most likely, you share his energetic approach and inclination toward change, but the two of you might get so caught up in new ideas that you fail to stick to more routine tasks.

Furthermore, you share his interest in collaboration and teamwork, so you may be eager to work together on projects. To you, he seems comfortable being the center of attention, and because you both enjoy the social aspects of work, you probably appreciate his fun, outgoing nature.

Like you, people with the i style may seem:

- ✓ Passionate
- ✓ Fun-loving
- ✓ Adventurous
- ✓ Energizing

What Is the Motivation for Their Behavior?

As you can see from the map, people with the i style prioritize Enthusiasm, Action, and Collaboration. Because they place such a high value on these three areas, it will probably affect your working relationship with them.

Enthusiasm

People with the i style put a high priority on Enthusiasm and tend to maintain an upbeat attitude. Because they get excited about new possibilities, they may be very expressive when communicating their ideas. Since you tend to share their optimistic viewpoint, the two of you may respond to each other's energy and help create a lively atmosphere.

Action

In addition, they prioritize Action, so they focus on making quick progress toward exciting solutions. Because they tend to be fast-paced, they may be eager to get going without spending a lot of time considering the consequences. Because you also tend to get going quickly, you may appreciate their spontaneous approach.

Collaboration

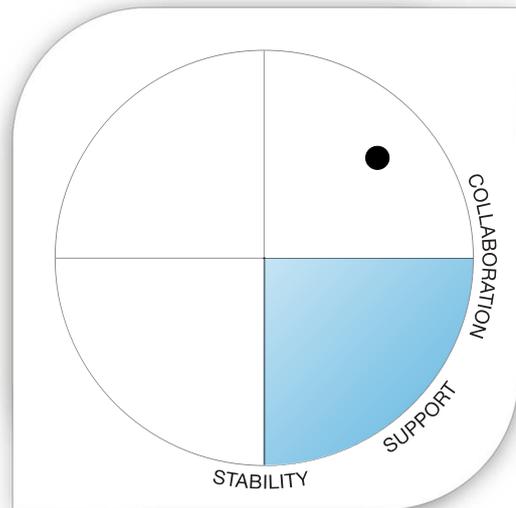

Furthermore, those with the i style also prioritize Collaboration. They enjoy meeting new people, and they probably have a talent for getting everyone involved and building team spirit. They appreciate teamwork and often gather the group to work on projects collaboratively. Since you share their emphasis on working with others, you may join them in looking for opportunities to collaborate.

UNDERSTANDING HOW YOU REACT TO THE S STYLE

Now, let's imagine that you regularly interact with someone with an S style. To you, he seems supportive and accommodating, and whenever you ask him a question, he's always patient and happy to help. However, you may become frustrated when his focus on making people happy causes him to overlook other important factors.

He is well-liked by everyone and can always be counted on to perform his job consistently. Around the office, he's known for his reliability, and you may appreciate his tendency to follow through on tasks. However, because you don't share his desire for stability, you may think he is too cautious and indecisive at times.

Because you share his interest in building strong workplace relationships, it's probably easy for you to identify with his team-oriented attitude and concern for others. Furthermore, you may appreciate that he isn't worried about who gets the credit, and it never feels like a competition when the two of you collaborate.

To you, people with the S style may seem:

- ✓ Soft-spoken
- ✓ Careful
- ✓ Patient
- ✓ Modest

What Is the Motivation for Their Behavior?

As you can see from the map, people with the S style prioritize Support, Stability, and Collaboration. Because they place such a high value on these three areas, it will probably affect your working relationship with them.

Support

People with the S style place a high priority on providing Support. They tend to be good listeners, and as a result, they're often seen as patient and accommodating. They don't hesitate to help out when they can, and they value a warm and easygoing environment. Although you may appreciate their friendly approach, you may think they try too hard to meet everyone's needs.

Stability

In addition, they prioritize Stability, so they often focus on maintaining a predictable, orderly environment. Since they tend to be cautious, they're probably methodical and avoid rapid change whenever possible. Because you're more willing to move quickly on bold ideas, you may find it hard to relate to their caution and need for stability.

Collaboration

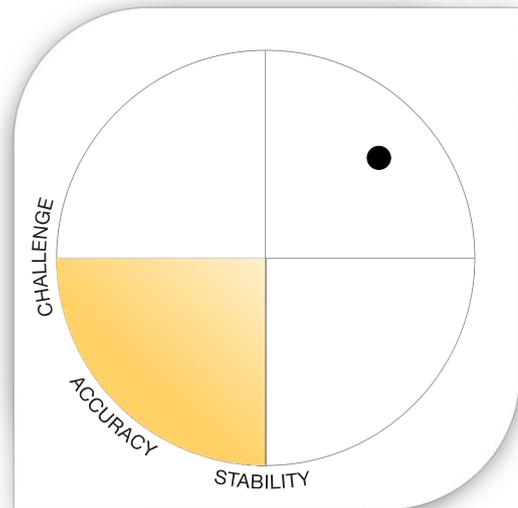

Furthermore, people with the S style also prioritize Collaboration. They enjoy working with others in a trusting, warm environment, and they may go out of their way to make sure people feel included and accepted. Since you share this focus on friendly teamwork, the two of you may work together to maintain an open, receptive atmosphere.

UNDERSTANDING HOW YOU REACT TO THE C STYLE

Imagine that you regularly interact with someone with a C style. Unlike others with the i style, you share her priority on accuracy, so you probably appreciate her dedication to getting things done right. While she's not highly sociable, she insists on working tirelessly until a task is done to her satisfaction. Because you share her high standards, you may respect this attention to quality.

To you, this colleague often seems overly careful and methodical. She prefers a predictable setting where she can do her best work, and you may think she spends too much time overanalyzing decisions. However, you probably appreciate that when she commits to something, she will follow through.

Furthermore, while it isn't typical for someone with the i style, you tend to share her willingness to challenge ideas. Like you, she tends to point out errors and ask a lot of skeptical questions. However, you may think she comes across as stubborn or unyielding when the two of you disagree.

To you, people with the C style may seem:

- ✓ Skeptical
- ✓ Precise
- ✓ Unemotional
- ✓ Distant

What Is the Motivation for Their Behavior?

As you can see from the map, people with the C style prioritize Accuracy, Stability, and Challenge. Because they place such a high value on these three areas, it will probably affect your working relationship with them.

Accuracy

People with the C style place a high priority on Accuracy. Because they want to ensure superior results, they tend to analyze options rationally and separate emotions from facts. They value being precise, and as result, they will often ask in-depth or skeptical questions. Since you tend to share their logical approach, you probably relate to their emphasis on creating sound solutions.

Stability

In addition, they prioritize Stability. Because they tend to value follow-through and restraint, they're uncomfortable with quick or risky decisions and prefer to take time to make an informed choice. They tend to analyze all the options, and they often make decisions that promise predictable outcomes. Because you're probably more interested in bold ideas and quick progress, you may grow frustrated with their cautious approach.

Challenge

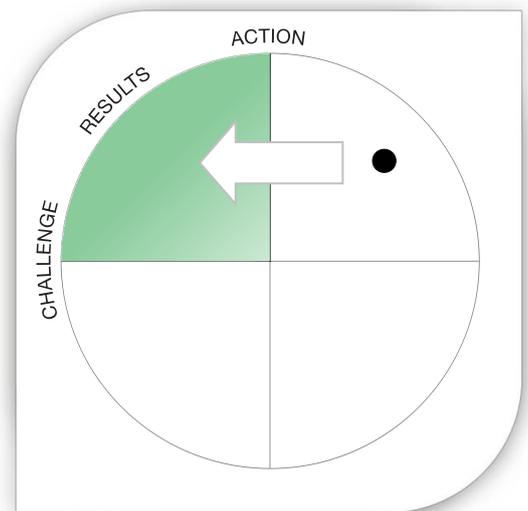

Furthermore, people with the C style also prioritize Challenge. In their quest to find the most streamlined or productive method of completing their tasks, they may openly question ideas and point out flaws that others may have missed. Since you tend to share their tendency to challenge assumptions, you may find it easy to relate to their skeptical approach.

When Trying to Connect

Tea, people with the D style like to get right to the point, and this might affect the way the two of you relate to one another. They're probably willing to be straightforward or even blunt in the interest of getting things done. In contrast, you're more likely than they are to focus on building relationships and getting everyone involved. As a result, they may become frustrated if you spend too much time trying to use charm to persuade them, and you may find their approach to be too frank or dismissive.

Therefore, when trying to connect with people who have the D style, consider the following strategies:

- Minimize the casual conversation and get right to business.
- Don't take their bluntness personally.
- Talk to them about how your ideas will lead to measurable results.

When Problems Need to be Solved

People with the D style make quick, firm decisions in order to make progress and keep moving. While you may appreciate their desire to solve problems rapidly, you're much less likely to choose aggressive or unpopular approaches. As a result, they may become frustrated if your tendency to seek buy-in from everyone keeps the process from reaching a swift conclusion, and you may see their focus on immediate answers over other factors as shortsighted.

Therefore, when solving problems with people who have the D style, consider the following strategies:

- Avoid emphasizing other people's feelings at the expense of finding workable answers.
- Be willing to take a stand if you think their solution overlooks important emotional considerations.
- Don't allow them to force you into plans that make you uncomfortable.

When Things Get Tense

While it isn't typical of someone with the i style, you share your "D" coworkers' tendency to challenge ideas, so you both probably address conflicts directly. However, they may become very competitive and aggressive during conflict, and you may pull back or lash out when confronted by them. Furthermore, they may think your attempts to compromise undermine the frank discussion they see as necessary to reach a resolution.

Therefore, when things get tense with people who have the D style, consider the following strategies:

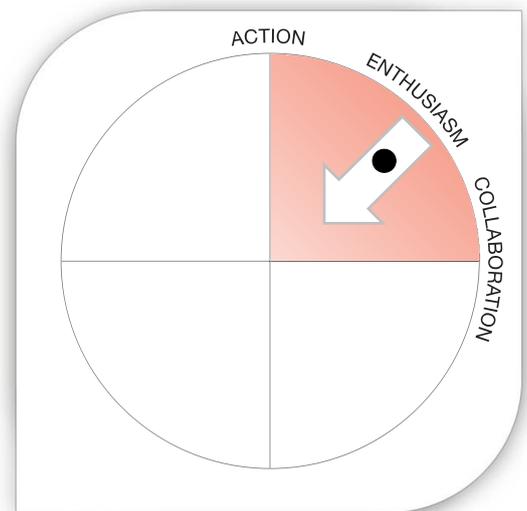

- Avoid interpreting their directness as a personal attack.
- State your points objectively without becoming emotional.
- Be aware that they will reciprocate when you challenge them, and they may be more aggressive.

When Trying to Connect

Because people with the i style are extremely outgoing, Tea, they're highly sociable and share your priority on working collaboratively. They tend to be high-spirited, and conversations between the two of you are probably friendly and optimistic. However, even though you enjoy working with one another, their fun-loving nature means that your discussions may sometimes stray off topic and neglect relevant tasks.

Therefore, when trying to connect with people who have the i style, consider the following strategies:

- Show them that you value your working relationship by maximizing opportunities to collaborate together.
- Enjoy the social aspects of your work while also staying focused on tasks.
- Solicit their ideas and speak up with your concerns.

When Problems Need to be Solved

People with the i style like to get started immediately and move quickly when confronting a problem, and you probably appreciate their desire to overcome obstacles at a fast pace. Like them, you prefer to maintain a positive attitude as you move toward solutions. However, in your mutual enthusiasm to find an answer, the two of you may overlook important details or make unrealistic assumptions that rely on best-case scenarios.

Therefore, when solving problems with people who have the i style, consider the following strategies:

- Share your enthusiasm for creative solutions.
- Temper your mutual optimism by considering all potential issues.
- Encourage each other to share your doubts.

When Things Get Tense

Because people with the i style want to maintain friendly relationships, they may initially ignore problems and avoid tense situations. However, self-expression is very important to them, so they may insist on being heard in confrontations, even if it means becoming emotional and lashing out. Since you also tend to be expressive during conflict, the two of you may sometimes say harsh things to one another that are difficult to take back, and this can escalate the situation.

Therefore, when things get tense with people who have the i style, consider the following strategies:

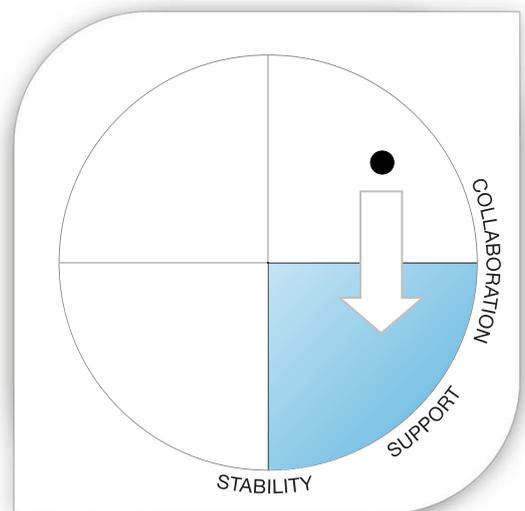

- Give them time to have their say, and avoid purposefully escalating the argument.
- Express a desire to work through the conflict quickly but thoroughly.
- Show them that you share their interest in maintaining a good relationship.

When Trying to Connect

People with the S style value cooperation and friendly interaction, Tea, and this might affect the way you relate to one another. Like them, you also prioritize collaboration and getting everyone involved. However, you tend to be more expressive than they are, and you may sometimes end up inadvertently monopolizing conversations with them. In addition, because they tend to share your optimism, you may find that you both tend to underestimate the challenges that may be holding you back.

Therefore, when trying to connect with people who have the S style, consider the following strategies:

- Use your upbeat approach to encourage them to share their ideas.
- Remember to challenge each other to face tough issues head-on.
- Work collaboratively with them, but don't let your shared openness and trust allow you to overlook potential problems.

When Problems Need to be Solved

Compared to people with the S style, you're probably more likely to make swift decisions when it comes to solving problems. While they're likely to avoid rapid, dramatic change, you tend to be open to untested or bold solutions. As a result, their more cautious approach may seem indecisive to you, while your willingness to change course rapidly may seem too risky to them.

Therefore, when solving problems with people who have the S style, consider the following strategies:

- Respect their cautious pace, but work together to make decisions more efficiently.
- Consider establishing a mutually agreed-upon deadline to avoid any tension that could arise from your decision-making differences.
- Strike a balance between your more daring approach and their more careful one.

When Things Get Tense

Because people with the S style want to support others, they avoid causing trouble and upsetting the people around them. You both tend to dislike confronting conflict directly, so the two of you may sometimes minimize or ignore disagreements. At the same time, they're more likely to hide their true feelings to restore harmony quickly, while you may lash out when pushed. When this happens, they may withdraw even further.

Therefore, when things get tense with people who have the S style, consider the following strategies:

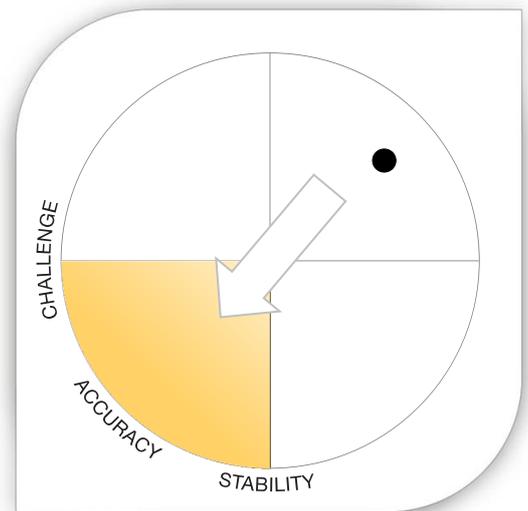

- Express your concern for their feelings, and show a desire to work through the conflict quickly and calmly.
- Address the situation directly right from the start rather than hiding your differences.
- Avoid dismissing the conflict unless you're sure it's resolved.

When Trying to Connect

Tea, people with the C style would often rather focus on facts than feelings, and this might affect the way you relate to one another. While it's unexpected for someone with the i style, you share their priority on accuracy, and they probably appreciate your focus on precision. However, your enthusiastic acceptance of new people and ideas may conflict with their more cautious, reserved approach.

Therefore, when trying to connect with people who have the C style, consider the following strategies:

- Don't take their skepticism personally.
- Let them set the pace rather than expecting them to quickly respond to your friendly approach.
- Highlight your shared desire for accuracy by focusing on the facts.

When Problems Need to be Solved

When it comes to solving problems, people with the C style want to thoroughly consider all the consequences before choosing a plan. On the other hand, you're more willing to take risks and change directions. As a result, you may become frustrated if they cast doubt on your ideas during the problem-solving process. In turn, they may see your push for quick decisions as hasty or reckless.

Therefore, when solving problems with people who have the C style, consider the following strategies:

- Respect their need to consider all the options, and remember that this may lead to higher-impact solutions.
- Show appreciation for their logical viewpoint by backing up your arguments with evidence.
- Find ways to balance your fast-paced style with their caution.

When Things Get Tense

Because people with the C style often view conflict as a disagreement over who is correct, they usually want to avoid direct aggression and focus on the facts. Although it's unusual for someone with the i style, you share their priority on challenge, so the two of you may approach conflict in a similarly questioning way. However, unlike them, there may be times when you become emotional during confrontations, which may make them quite uncomfortable. As a result, the two of you may try to avoid conflict, allowing resentment or negative feelings to develop.

Therefore, when things get tense with people who have the C style, consider the following strategies:

- State your position objectively and give them time to present their side.
- Refrain from making emotional appeals that might cause them to withdraw.
- Use your shared tendency to challenge ideas to keep conflict visible so you can work toward resolution.

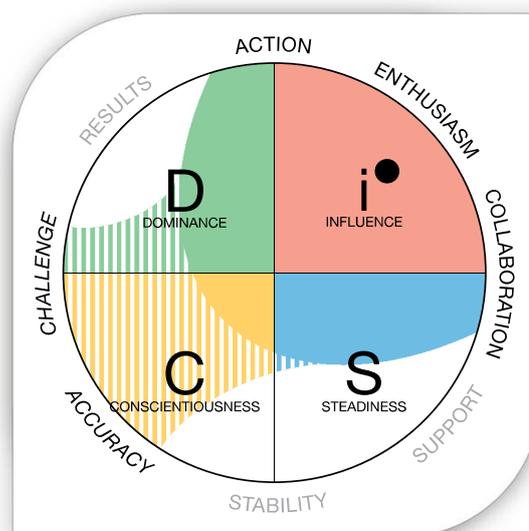

SUMMARY: INCREASING YOUR WORKPLACE EFFECTIVENESS

Tea, given everything you've learned about your style, what follows are three key strategies that might help you work more effectively with all the people in your workplace.

1 Slow Down and Listen to Others

You tend to be very energetic, so you probably enjoy being spontaneous and processing information quickly. However, your fast pace may be overwhelming for others on your team. Because some people aren't able to put their ideas together as quickly as you do when making decisions, you may need to slow down to give them enough time to process so that things feel less chaotic for them.

- Allow for periods of silence so others have time to put their thoughts together.
- Remember to step back and show patience, since many people will not share their concerns when someone else is quick to take charge.

2 Avoid Monopolizing Conversations

Because you enjoy sharing your opinions and ideas, you may have a tendency to overshadow those who are less outgoing. At times, you may even cut people off in your excitement to build on their ideas. So, while you like to connect with people, you can also alienate them if you don't listen attentively and give them space to share their perspectives.

- When others are speaking, focus on listening with patience and interest rather than on formulating your own response.
- Encourage those who are less outgoing to speak up by asking them questions to draw them out.

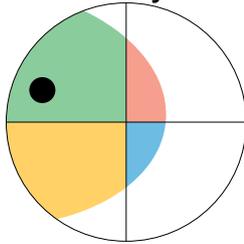

3 Be Firm and Stand Your Ground

You may find it hard to take a firm stance when you feel you're being pressured to take a different direction. As you've probably discovered, a lot of people are willing to force their plans on someone who they think will give in. If you continually abandon your own ideas too easily, people might assume you're generally indifferent, and they may have less regard for your preferences in the future.

- Remind yourself that just because others are confident doesn't mean their ideas are better than yours.
- Consider the long-term consequences of letting your ideas be stifled.

PERSONALIZED STYLE INDEX: THE D STYLES

DC Style

Challenge
Results
Accuracy

Goals: Independence, personal accomplishment

Judges others by: Competence, common sense

Influences others by: High standards, determination

Overuses: Bluntness; sarcastic or condescending attitude

Under pressure: Becomes overly critical

Fears: Failure to achieve their standards

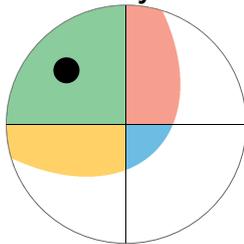

Would increase effectiveness through: Warmth, tactful communication

Tea, people with the DC style prioritize Challenge, so they want to explore all options and make sure that the best possible methods are used. As a result, they may be very questioning and skeptical of other people's ideas. This may be easy for you to relate to since you aren't afraid to challenge opinions and ask questions.

In addition, they also prioritize Results, so they're often very direct and straightforward. When they're focused on the bottom line, they may overlook the feelings of others. You may have trouble relating to what you see as an excessive drive for results.

Finally, those with the DC style also prioritize Accuracy. Because they want to control the quality of their work, they prefer to work independently, and they may focus on separating emotions from facts. Since you also like to maintain high standards, you can probably relate to their objective, analytical approach.

D Style

Results
Action
Challenge

Goals: Bottom-line results, victory

Judges others by: Ability to achieve results

Influences others by: Assertiveness, insistence, competition

Overuses: The need to win, resulting in win/lose situations

Under pressure: Becomes impatient and demanding

Fears: Being taken advantage of, appearing weak

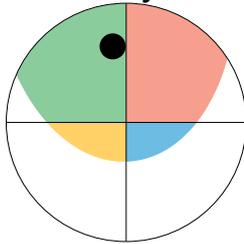

Would increase effectiveness through: Patience, empathy

People with the D style are strong-willed individuals who prioritize Results. Because they want to make their mark, they constantly look for new challenges and opportunities. You may have trouble relating to their competitiveness, but they relish any chance to test themselves and excel.

In addition, they also prioritize Action, so they often focus on achieving their goals quickly and forcefully. Since they tend to be very fast-paced, they like it when people cut to the chase. Since you also prefer to move quickly toward your goals, you can probably relate to their desire for a rapid pace.

Furthermore, those with the D style also prioritize Challenge. Because they want to control outcomes, they're often questioning and independent-minded. Since you also tend to challenge the status quo, you probably relate to this tendency, but you also may find yourself in disagreement with them at times.

Di Style

Action
Results
Enthusiasm

Goals: Quick action, new opportunities

Judges others by: Confidence, influence

Influences others by: Charm, bold action

Overuses: Impatience, egotism, manipulation

Under pressure: Becomes aggressive, overpowers others

Fears: Loss of power

Would increase effectiveness through: Patience, humility, consideration of others' ideas

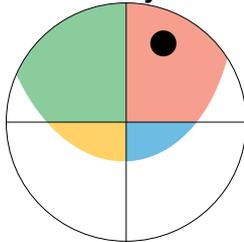

People with the Di style prioritize Action, and they probably come across as adventurous and bold. Because they grow bored easily, these individuals often seek out unique assignments and leadership positions. Since you also like to maintain a fast pace, you can probably relate well to their high-energy approach to work.

In addition, they also prioritize Results, so they often work to accomplish their goals rapidly. While they are competitive, they can also use charm to persuade others to help them succeed. You may think they are too focused on results.

Finally, those with the Di style also prioritize Enthusiasm, so they may come across as charming and fun because of their high energy. They probably use their excitement to inspire others and to create a lively environment. Because you also tend to be positive and expressive, you probably appreciate their dynamic approach.

PERSONALIZED STYLE INDEX: THE i STYLES

iD Style

Action
Enthusiasm
Results

Goals: Exciting breakthroughs

Judges others by: Ability to think creatively, charisma

Influences others by: Boldness, passion

Overuses: Impulsiveness, outspokenness

Under pressure: Becomes impulsive, lashes out at others

Fears: Fixed environments, loss of approval or attention

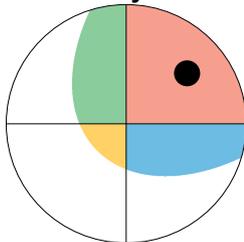

Would increase effectiveness through: Focusing on the details, patience, listening to others

Tea, people with the iD style prioritize Action, so they tend to focus on moving toward their goals quickly. They like to maintain a fast pace, and they're probably comfortable making decisions on the fly. Because you share their active pace, you may join them in working to create momentum.

In addition, they also prioritize Enthusiasm, and they may come across as high-energy people who like to rally others around a common goal. Most likely, they maintain an upbeat attitude and bring a genuine optimism to their work. You also tend to express yourself and stay positive, so you may appreciate their tendency to get people excited about ideas.

Furthermore, those with the iD style also prioritize Results, so they may come across as ambitious and goal-oriented. Most likely, they enjoy leveraging relationships to achieve new accomplishments. To you, it may seem that their quest for results overlooks other important factors.

i Style

Enthusiasm
Action
Collaboration

Goals: Popularity, approval, excitement

Judges others by: Openness, social skills, enthusiasm

Influences others by: Charm, optimism, energy

Overuses: Optimism, praise

Under pressure: Becomes disorganized, gets overly expressive

Fears: Rejection, not being heard

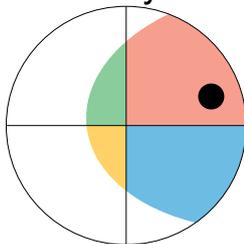

Would increase effectiveness through: Being more objective, following through on tasks

People with the i style put a high priority on Enthusiasm and tend to maintain an upbeat attitude. They get excited about new possibilities, and they may be very expressive when communicating their ideas. Since you tend to share their optimistic viewpoint, the two of you may respond to each other's energy and help create a lively atmosphere.

In addition, they prioritize Action, so they often focus on making quick progress toward exciting solutions. Since they tend to be fast-paced, they may be eager to get going without spending a lot of time considering the consequences. Because you also tend to get going quickly, you may appreciate their spontaneous approach.

Furthermore, those with the i style also value Collaboration. They usually enjoy meeting new people, and they may have a talent for getting everyone involved and building team spirit. Since you share their emphasis on working with others, you may join them in looking for opportunities to collaborate.

iS Style

Collaboration
Enthusiasm
Support

Goals: Friendship

Judges others by: Ability to see good in others, warmth

Influences others by: Agreeableness, empathy

Overuses: Patience with others, indirect approaches

Under pressure: Takes criticism personally, avoids conflict

Fears: Pressuring others, being disliked

Would increase effectiveness through: Acknowledging others' flaws, confronting problems

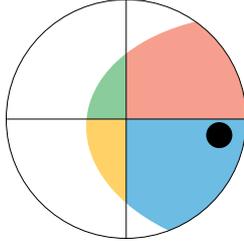

People with the iS style prioritize Collaboration, so they enjoy teaming up with others as much as possible. Because they want everyone to feel included, they tend to spend time and energy getting people involved. Since you share their desire to work with others, you may be just as eager as they are to turn tasks into group projects.

In addition, they also prioritize Enthusiasm, and they're likely to bring a positive attitude to their work and relationships.
